surveying techniques, writing and problem-solving as they learn about the natural world.

Best of all, the six freestanding lessons include reproducible student activity sheets, a map, and a video. Each lesson has been tested in pilot classrooms and will work as part of a normal middle school curriculum (grades 4 - 8).

THE GREEN SCENE is fun. And its topics are timely:

- Forests Are Important To People
- Animals Need Forests! A Food Chain Puzzle
- Words about Nature
- Citizen Action: The Wilderness Act
- Stake It Out: Decisions About Forests
- Forest Assessment Game

To get your copy of this great environmental teaching tool—at a very small price—send in the attached coupon.

THE GREEN SCENE was developed by a team of curriculum specialists, scientists, naturalists and classroom teachers—under the auspices of The Wilderness Society, The University of Arizona School for Renewable Resources, The U.S.D.A. Forest Service, and KUAT-TV public television.*

Now there's an effective way to introduce environmental education concepts into the classroom while reinforcing basic skill. No there's THE GREEN SCENE.* This easy-to-use curriculum unit employs cooperative group work to explain forest ecology and wilderness. Students practice math skills,

Yes! Send me THE GREEN SCENE activities and video.
